A SEED FUND TO BRING OUT AFRICAN DIGITAL START-UPS

As part of the Digital Africa initiative, the AFD proposes this support and funding scheme because...

... the seed stage, which is crucial for a business, requires substantial investments, which are sometimes difficult to finance.

... the technical and financial assistance helps young innovative businesses in the digital sector to expand their activities.

... supporting these young companies also helps to create an ecosystem that is conducive to innovation.

... today, only 20% of African SMEs are eligible for a bank loan and 87% of start-ups have no access to any funding.

... digital innovation acts as a powerful accelerator to respond to certain basic needs such as access to healthcare, education and energy.
A pan-African initiative to support innovative entrepreneurs

Through its dedicated seed fund, AFD supports six programs aimed at supporting and funding digital start-ups from the very beginning of their operations.

BRINGING TOGETHER AND SUPPORTING DIGITAL INNOVATION IN AFRICA

The Digital Africa initiative was born from the ambition of the French President Emmanuel Macron to support entrepreneurial momentum and contribute to the development of innovative entrepreneurship in Africa. Digital Africa is an open and collaborative initiative intended to support African entrepreneurs. It brings together a strong network that is conducive to the emergence and the development of innovative and high-impact entrepreneurial projects in Africa. It provides to project holders with the ingredients that are essential for their growth: networks, knowledge, funding, opportunities and visibility.

Through its network, the Digital Africa ecosystem is represented by:

- 60 committed partners in Africa
- 170 innovation hubs and incubators in Africa
